“ Noone understands the bond we had, you taught me how to drive, you even let me use your Gold nissan to pass my test. You knew about my parents dieing, and you filled that role perfectly as my brother, my role model, my idol, most importantly my father figure. You understood me for me, and i understand you for you. I tried to stop you, I tried everything my brother, you know that. I saw you at your highest and I saw you at your lowest. You also saw me in both situations. You and I were all we got, you always told me if I got you, then you got us. But It was not supposed to be like this. I have recieved your blessings already from upstairs. I appreciate it and you know I needed it. Unfortunately I knew what you have been going through for years and it got bad lately. I did not know how to help, you were begging for help but noone listened. I did and I tried. I text you every morning and everynight still. To his family, I am sorry for your loss. I do not know how to reach out to anyone. But I have alot of information about his life and about him, that if you truly loved him you would want to know. I talked to him until his last breathe LITERALLY. I promise i tried everything for him. Give me a call please if anyone wants to know about my big brother and my right hand. Noone knew him quite like I did. 323-636-1664 Christopher Maraglino. I am so sorry for our loss. I miss him dearly.

Since I didn't have your phone number anymore I looked you up old friend to wish you a happy 38th birthday. My wife and I are sitting here stunned by the news that you are now in heaven. Please don't cause any thunder with your infectious laughter but hold the smiles and I'll hopefully see you again.
